FROM THE PRESIDENT'S DESK

In addition this, through girl child education, a lot of girls have been taught their rights in the society, they have become aware of their roles and those right shouldn't be trampled upon.

Africa has the highest prevalence of rate of child sexual abuse, effective girl child education can play an instrumental role in combating rape. Also educating a girl is the most effective way to eliminate gender based violence completely, sex education which is a part of girl child education can help young girls to know how to protect themselves and to know the appropriate authorities to report to, whenever their rights are been violated.

GIRL CHILD EDUCATION

In a society where there is gender inequality, high level of patriarchy and prevalent gender based violence, girl child education will play vital roles in ensuring that this issues are curbed..

Every girl child has the right to life, education, good health e.t.c, but unfortunately some are been denied the right to quality education because it is perceived by some individuals, that educating a girl child is a liability and not an investment.

Since the inception of Girl Child Education, the movement has been a means of empowerment for young girls and the society at large, people are now coming to terms that educating the girl child is very beneficial.

Girl Child Education has not only played vital roles in helping to fight against harmful norms that are endangering the life of the girl child, it has also gone far to ensure that young girls are groomed properly to become productive, posses leadership skills and foster positive changes in the society at large.
